MILITARY TRAINING RECORD OF JOTs

INTRODUCTION

Complete records concerning the standing of JOTs during their military training are not up to date due to a lack of information. The Junior Officer Training Division is currently in the process of improving these records and has recently initiated steps to obtain reports on each phase of training from the individuals concerned.

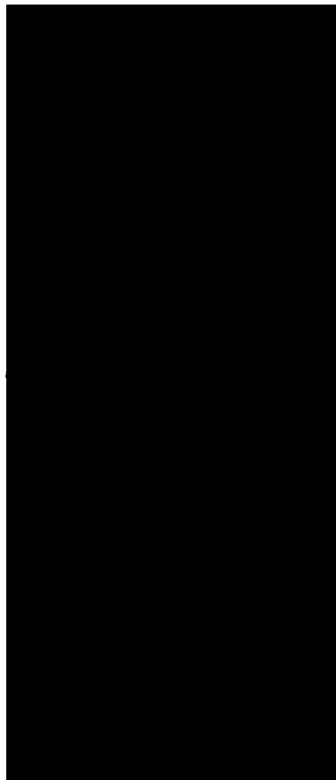

Some remarks are due concerning the disparity in criteria used by the Air Force, Army and Navy against which officer candidates are evaluated. At first glance, the Navy candidates would appear to have made the best record. This must be qualified, however, by the fact that the Navy OCS training places heaviest emphasis upon academic achievement - a field in which all JOTs are well qualified. The Air Force, on the other hand, attempts to place equal emphasis upon academic and military-leadership development while in Army OCS, the emphasis is heavy on the side of discipline, leadership and troop command. Most JOTs are, at least initially, less adaptable to the latter than to the former.

The following data concerns OTR sponsored candidates only. Only those candidates who have completed OCS as of 1 August 1953 are listed.
